What would you pay to know, right now, whether the person in front of you is telling you the truth? In a way, you might say that this information is priceless. It would utterly transform the way that we interact with one another. In 1996, author James Halperin wrote a wonderful book called The Truth Machine about precisely this possibility. Now, thanks to developments in video processing algorithms at M.I.T. over the last few years, that vision might be a lot closer than you might imagine.
